

Your rights abroad

As a member of SABAM, your copyrights are managed abroad by the sister societies with which SABAM has entered into reciprocity agreements.

In reality, this means that the foreign societies of authors do everything to assure your royalties are paid when your works are used on their territory. These royalties are then paid to SABAM so that they can be redistributed to its members.

NB: All foreign societies of authors act autonomously on the basis of their own national legislation, Articles of Association and regulations. It may be the case that some operating methods, some categories of authors and works are not managed by a sister society whereas, in Belgium, SABAM indeed intervenes for these cases. If you would like more information about this, you can get in contact with the SABAM Customer Service.

Please also take account of the fact that the foreign societies of authors determine their rates completely independently. Hence the amount of foreign royalties will not be the same as the amount received for use of the work in Belgium. The economic situation of the country in question also plays a role.

Below you will find an overview of the countries in which SABAM is represented.
